List of Circulating Music Libraries in France

Updated by Anita Breckbill, December 2015

Following is an updated list of circulating music libraries in France spanning the period of their existence, 1765 to ca. 1950. The preliminary list was published as an appendix to the article by Anita Breckbill and Carole Goebes, “Music Circulating Libraries in France: An Overview and a Preliminary List” Notes 63:4 (June 2007), 761-797. Further work in the collection of publisher’s catalogs at the Bibliothèque nationale de France and in 18th-century periodicals have yielded ten more circulating libraries and an expansion of dates of operation for a further eleven libraries. Changes are indicated in red type.

Sources: The list was compiled from the six following sources.

- 1) The Rokahr Family Archive (RFA) at the University of Nebraska—Lincoln. The archive is a collection of nearly five thousand opera scores, with concentration on French works of the nineteenth century. A number of these scores were bought on the used book market, and we identified 107 that came from former music circulating libraries. Such scores are usually marked with stickers on the front covers, sometimes with inscribed covers, and sometimes with stamped pages.
- 2) Annuals of commerce in Paris and provinces as follows: Almanach du commerce de Paris and Annuaire général du commerce et de l’industrie (referred to in this paper as Didot-Botin). The following years for these annuals have been searched: 1804, 1809, 1816, 1821, 1832, 1835-1908, 1910-11, 1913, 1915-17, 1919-20, 1922, 1925, 1927, 1929-31, 1933, 1935, 1939-1940, 1950, 1953 and 1959. Missing volumes were either not published (pre-1835) or not available in the British Library (post-1908). A search in the “Professions” section in the Paris volumes under “Musique (marchands de)” proved to be the most useful. The search yielded a list of music shops, which sometimes mentioned “abonnements” as well as other functions of the shop. Listings of functions were much rarer in the provinces section, so provincial music circulating libraries were rarely identified using these annuals.
- 3) Agenda musical for 1836-37 and Annales de la musique, 1819. Both of these sources list music businesses operating in France at the time.
- 4) Anik Devriès and François Lesure, Dictionnaire des éditeurs de musique français, 2 vols. in 3, Archives de l’édition musicale française (Geneva: Minkoff, 1979-88). While the aim of this reference source is to give information about publishers, occasionally a music circulating library is mentioned in the information about a specific business.
- 5) Advertisements in music periodicals sometimes yielded names of businesses advertising music circulating libraries. Some of these names were found in no other sources.

- 6) Publishers' catalogs. The collection of publisher's catalogs at the Bibliothèque nationale de France yielded a few for music circulating libraries, many publisher's catalogs that also mentioned a connected library, and fliers and folders that advertised the libraries. Since the name of the business had to be identified before material was requested, there may be some businesses with catalogs that mentioned circulating libraries that we missed.

Dates: The list includes dates of the business as stated in Devriès-Lesure or other reference sources. The circulating library, however, may not have been operated during the whole tenure of the business. Therefore, the third column is "Verified dates of abonnement" which gives the first and last independently verified dates that we have for a music circulating library. These dates are indicated with the following abbreviations:

Ad=from advertisement

Ann=from specific mention in published annual, such as Didot-Bottin

Cat=from catalog published by the business

D-L=from Devriès-Lesure

RFA=from score in the Rokahr Family Archive. In this case the date presented is derived from the publication date of the score, i.e., the abonnement was in business after the score was published.

Completeness of list: The list is incomplete. If the business never listed itself as having a music circulating library in Didot-Bottin; if we found no advertisements for it nor mention of it in Devriès-Lesure; if no score for it existed in the RFA, the name is not listed. We expect that we have found the largest percentage of Parisian music circulating libraries, but not all. We expect that there were many more music circulating libraries in the provinces than we have so far been able to identify.

² Occasionally the ending date found for a circulating library succeeds the sale date of the business. We assume this happened when information was sent in to a yearbook for the next publication before the business actually ended.
